Applications are invited from qualified individuals for a full-time tenure-track faculty position in our Operations Management group, with a start date of July 1, 2015. The responsibilities of the position include teaching basic and advanced courses in managing operations, supply chain management, spreadsheet modeling, and statistics at the MBA level; research in area(s) of expertise; supervision of doctoral students; interdisciplinary contribution to the research and teaching of other faculty members; and service to the school.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Operations Management or a related field, or be assured of completing a Ph.D. before July 2015. Exceptional candidates in all areas will be given serious consideration. We anticipate filling the position at the Assistant Professor level, but applications at other levels will be considered.

To be considered for this position, apply at http://apply.interfolio.com/26355.

The following materials are required:

1) Letter of interest, with clear indication of position being applied for,
2) Curriculum vita,
3) Up to three research papers,
4) Names and contact information of three references, and
5) Evidence of teaching effectiveness
Applications received by December 1, 2014 will receive full consideration. Candidates attending the INFORMS Annual Meeting in San Francisco should submit a vita and any supporting material by October 15, 2014. Preliminary meetings at this conference are an important part of the recruiting process.

Cornell University is an innovative Ivy League university and a great place to work. Our inclusive community of scholars, students and staff impart an uncommon sense of larger purpose and contribute creative ideas to further the university's mission of teaching, discovery and engagement. Located in Ithaca, NY, Cornell's far-flung global presence includes the medical college's campuses on the Upper East Side of Manhattan and Doha, Qatar, as well as the new Cornell Tech campus to be built on Roosevelt Island in the heart of New York City.

Diversity and Inclusion are a part of Cornell University's heritage. We’re an employer and educator recognized for valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.